The demon Mammon occupies willing people and eventually occupies places when he is invited in by those people. He does not force his way in. Once in place though, Mammon will encourage his host(s) to engaged in the seven deadly sins, thus layering sin upon sin, until that sin becomes institutionalized. When laws are passed that enshrine that sin into a culture, Mammon's influence grows on the strength of these now institutionalized sin that lure new willing victims. Once thus ensconced, Mammon will not leave that place until the time comes where he is (a) ordered into the background by the righteous, (b) suppressed by the angelic forces, or (c) cast into the abyss and suppressed from any further influence by Jesus Christ himself. Mammon will continue to occupy places where he has been invited by a willing person and that person's sinful activities and choices result in his/her sins becoming institutionalized.

The Babylonian Radhanite merchant-bankers of the Silk Road brought an already institutionalized demon of Mammon formally to the UK in 1066, even though he was already plying his usury and debt slavery trade in the British Isles before then. William the Conqueror granted a chart to The City of London to enable Mammon, through his Babylonian Radhanite merchant-bankers to take control of the economic and social life of the newly-emerging English nation.

The British demonically-possessed entities and sites identified above are proven lairs for the demon Mammon in the British Isles. His concentration in London is evidence of abject wickedness that is attempting to subdue the entire world presently.

Get behind us, Satan.
